Other CR 13 monsters Ive looked at (Storm Giant, Narzugon, Adele Arachnomancer and Wastrilith) all deal more damage than an adult white dragon with their regular attacks, and have either more hit points, damage resistance or a bunch of spells.. Everything over 10,800 is deadly for three level 11 characters, below that is hard, down to 7,200.. The scaling is so much flatter in 5e that any knowledge of CR and encounter balancing one has from 3.. Any of those are more suited to straight up slugging matches than the white dragon.

However, 5es scaling is nowhere near as stiff as 3 xs was While 3 5 says CR13 vs Level 8 is overwhelming, its only just, and so might be winnable with good tactics and luck.. Oh, and a lone CR 13 monster is a deadly threat to three level 10 characters (and below), and only a hard encounter for three level 11 characters.. And we swear to God, if anyone comes in here and starts spouting off QAnon bullshit about COVID-19 or literally anything else, you are going to get permabanned so thoroughly that your grandchildren wont be allowed to post here.. Going a level or two up in what you can beat isnt that crazy, in my opinion It should be an effortless TPK for level 8 ones if CR means anything.. xPF or 4e is most likely to be wrong (aside from 5e having some very odd CR ratings and not taking swinginess into account).. People dream up conspiracy theories to help make sense of things Theyre not helpful, though, and only serve to make the world more confusing and scarier.. Lower level PCs can still be a threat to higher CR foes throughout the game, especially if they arent played to take advantage of their own strengths.

MM doesnt have a CR8 white to compare, so I went with the 3 5e ones that matched those in the 5e book.. The White dragon clocks in under that, but over the Hard threshold of 7,200 So it is only a hard encounter for three level 11 characters, according to the CR system.. In 5e an Adult (CR13) vs a young (CR6) has 3 to hit for 5-10 more damage, 4 save DC for 20 more breath damage, about 55 more HP and 1 AC..
